

From the Congressman:

Today, I am hosting my 2019 Resources Fair at Georgia Piedmont Technical College in Clarkston for constituents looking to launch their career, advance in their jobs and better their lives. Participants will receive valuable information from a range of organizations that help people throughout Georgia's 4th District and the entire state, including healthcare advisers and assistance for veterans.

The Urban League of Greater Atlanta, the DeKalb Housing Authority and other agencies will be on hand to help constituents in small business development, resume building and job readiness. Resources will be available for the formerly incarcerated to overcome barriers to employment. We will also feature a panel discussion on: "How to do business with the television and film industry." A plethora of employers – such as AT&T, Goodwill, Pandora, Grady Health System and Southern Mechanical Contractors, among others – will be on hand as well.

We will hold three breakout sessions for attendees – one from 10:30-11:15 AM, the second from 11:30 AM-12:15 PM and the third from 2-2:45 PM. Attendees will have the opportunity to attend one of the following per session: Pathways to Empowerment/Overcoming Barriers, Training for Veterans, Job Readiness & Resume Development, and Small Business Development. The panel discussion on the film and TV industry will be held from 12:30-1:45 PM. The moderator of the panel is Terry J of iHeartRadio and will feature local talents who have had success in the entertainment industry.

As always, I appreciate your time and feedback. Please remember you can reach me on Facebook, Twitter and Instagram as well as emails, phone calls and letters. Thank you for allowing me the opportunity to represent you in Congress.
